

Roberto D'Amico is an associate professor in Biostatistics at University of Modena and Reggio Emilia and the Director of Cochrane Italy. His areas of professional expertise include methodology of randomised controlled trials and systematic reviews of efficacy and diagnostic accuracy studies.