

Prof Avril Drummond (UK)

Professor Avril Drummond is Professor of Healthcare Research at the University of Nottingham in the Faculty of Medicine and Health Sciences. She is a registered occupational therapist and was awarded a Fellowship of the UK Royal College of Occupational Therapists in 2012.

Avril has a longstanding clinical and academic interest in all aspects of rehabilitation and has published articles on clinical services and specific rehabilitation interventions across a number of areas and conditions. However, she is best known for her research in stroke rehabilitation and is a past Chair of the UK Stroke Forum, a member of the RCP Intercollegiate Working Party for Stroke and is a trustee of the UK Stroke Association. She has particular methodological expertise in conducting RCTs and in mixed methods research.

Avril is currently Editor-in-Chief of Clinical Rehabilitation.
