

Gordon Rattray is part of the International Cooperation team at European Disability Forum (EDF), where his priorities include disability-inclusive international development, humanitarian action, disaster risk reduction (DRR), and climate justice. Prior to this he spent 10 years with CBM, primarily in the Emergency Response Unit of the organisation where he was engaged in communications, advocacy and training.

Gordon has also worked in travel writing - both independently and for Bradt Travel Guides - and spent several years with Guerba World Travel, first as an overland safari driver in Africa and latterly in the marketing department.

Academic qualifications include vocational training in web development (PHP and JavaScript) and an Honours degree in Botany (Molecular Biology and Ecology) from the University of Glasgow.
